

PERMITS FOR MONTH

JULY SHOWS SLIGHT INCREASE OVER SAME MONTH OF LAST YEAR

July has passed away without showing any great revival in the building business. Indeed such a revival was not expected and it is gratifying to know that the month held its own in the matter of new buildings and even shows a little better than July of 1915. July, 1914, was a record month in this respect, showing $54,475 and 40 permits. July, 1915 had 20 permits and a value of $15,360. July, 1916, shows 21 permits and a building value of $16,320. DANCING PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Leighton Bryant of 1361 Vine street entertained a number of friends Saturday evening at a jolly dancing party in honor of Mrs. A. W. Bryant of San Francisco, who is their house guest. Flowers of the season were used to decorate the rooms, yellow and brown blossoms being used effectively. The evening was spent in dancing and with cards and a dainty collation was served.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lyons, Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Lyons, Mrs. Minnie Patterson, Mr. E. S. Patterson, Miss Irma Patterson, Miss Augusta Otto, Miss Hazel Tyler, Mr. James Gager, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wightman and Mr. Elwood Wightman, all of Glendale; Miss Nell O'Connor, Miss June Filbrique, Mr. William Speed, Miss Evelyn Eastman, Mr. Fred Eastman, Mr. Horton French, Mr. Herald Shepp, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McKeen, Miss Lucile McKeen, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cartwright, Miss Helen Powers, Mr. Philip Storms, all of Los Angeles, and the guest of honor, Mrs. A. W. Bryant, and Raymond Bryant. BIRD AND FLOWER CLUB

SOCIETY WILL MAKE TRIP WEDNESDAY TO THE WHIPPLE RANCH

Members and friends of the Bird and Flower club will meet Wednesday, August 2, at headquarters, 1111 Broadway, at 2 o'clock sharp, and proceed by the 2:15 car to Verdugo Park. An invitation to the club from Mrs. Whipple to visit her rabbit ranch has been accepted so that instead of alighting from the car at the entrance to the park, the members will go further up the canyon, getting out at the corner nearest to Mrs. Whipple's place. After looking at the rabbits and bees and searching for mountain quail the party will enter Verdugo park at that end, and walk along the river to the picnic grounds.

Mrs. Ella Richardson, who is at present visiting back east, has sent Mrs. Woods a flower puzzle, which will be given tomorrow to the members of the club to work out. So everybody bring a pencil, to write down guesses; every child taking part in the puzzle competition will be awarded a small prize.

Grown-ups are cordially invited to join the weekly trips of the Bird and Flower club. "I had no idea the club was so beautiful," said a lady, a newcomer to Glendale, who accompanied the members last Wednesday. "I have enjoyed every moment of the afternoon; may I come every time?" while the children are so enthusiastic that walls and groans ascended when the suggestion was made that the trips cease at the close of summer vacation. "We want to have the club all the year round," they exclaimed, "every week all winter and summer."

There are no dues or fees in connection with the Bird and Flower club. Any boy or girl of any age may join; membership buttons are given all young people who join, and honor buttons are awarded for many competitions. The main object of the club is to open the eyes and ears of all to the wonders and beauties of nature, especially birds and flowers. Walking along a street, crossing a vacant lot, climbing a hill, are a thousand and one objects of wonder and beauty too often altogether unobserved. To the man or woman whose eyes and ears have been even slightly opened, no scene, no object, no place can ever become dull or uninteresting. Every inch of ground, hill or swamp, beach or mountain, is teeming with life; there are nests in every tree, bees and butterflies on every flower; there are sights and sounds to interest and enthrall at every step of one's way.

Yet the majority of people neither see nor hear nor understand; they lose the music of the birds, the fragrance of the flowers; to them the mystery of abounding life is as a sealed book. Having eyes they see not, and having ears they hear not. The riches so lavishly poured out by nature they pass unheeding. Of what avail are automobiles, silken clothes, wealthy homes, if eyes are blind and ears are deaf.

The Bird and Flower club exists to give to all that wealth which cannot be taken away, the appreciation of and love for mother nature. To those who have learned to love nature there is a picture in each scene, sweet music in the air, a poem in every leaf, and glory everywhere.—NANNO WOODS, President.

RETURNS FROM CONVENTION

Mrs. H. V. Harrell of 457 East Second street, Glendale, returned Saturday from the National Prohibition convention in St. Paul, Minn., to which she was a delegate. She reports harmony in the convention and was pleased with the nomination for president and vice president. She thinks the party will at least gain back the lost votes of 1912 during this campaign. Mrs. Harrell thinks the Prohibition sentiment is gaining ground east of the Rockies and looks for national prohibition in 1920. California delegates numbered thirty-seven and were the only delegation to have a special car. Mrs. Harrell stopped over to visit relatives at Kansas City, Mo., and at Manhattan, Kansas.

WYOMING ROUND-UP

"The midsummer round-up of Wyoming, will camp at Bixby park, Long Beach, Saturday, Aug. 5. Bring feed. Coffee at mess wagon. Mavericks are welcome. Billy Jameson, foreman; Adah Bryan, ranger." Such is the unique invitation the Wyoming society gives to its annual picnic and outing. There are a few Glendale residents of the great cattle State in Glendale and they are heartily invited to renew old memories.

PROBABLY 500 LOST LIFE IN CANADIAN FIRES

RELIEF WORKERS SAY MANY BODIES YET LIE IN THE SMOLDERING PILES OF TREES

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
HAILEYBURY, Ont., Canada, Aug. 1.—There are still scores of dead lying in outlying places and where the smoldering piles of trees prevent access. Between Ramore and Cochrane there are bodies lying in holes and trenches that have not yet been visited. According to the relief workers there is every indication that the death list will be swelled to 500 by the time the final enumeration has been made. The fire has devastated more than 100 square miles of territory in Northern Ontario. Rain is now falling and is saving a much larger area from destruction.

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

STUDIES HUGHES' ACCEPTANCE SPEECH

PRESIDENT BELIEVED TO BE CONSIDERING BEST METHOD OF REPLY TO ARRAIGNMENT OF ADMINISTRATION

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 1.—President Wilson is believed to be studying a reply to the arraignment of the administration made by Charles E. Hughes, in his speech of acceptance at New York last night. Hughes' 8000-word indictment of the national administration is too definite and too pungent to be passed over without comment or any attempt at refutation. The cabinet meets today and the whole situation as created by Hughes' challenge will be carefully considered.

FRENCH ASTRIDE OF PERONNE RAILROAD

BRITISH AND FRENCH TROOPS PIERCE GERMAN THIRD LINE AT COMBLES

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
BERLIN, Aug. 1.—Desperate fighting is still going on in the neighborhood of Combles, where the British and the French had managed to get astride of the important Peronne railroad, which is one of the strong points of the German defense. The Allies are now almost within hearing of the waters of the Rhine but the Germans are confident that they will drive them back. The only point where the Allies have actually pierced the German third line of defense is at the Monacu farm where they have penetrated the line and are still holding it against the German attacks.

OPENS LAW OFFICE

F. M. STEELE WILL MEET HIS CLIENTS IN SUITE IN THE FLOWER BLOCK

F. M. Steele, attorney-at-law, has opened an office in the Flower block, and will make Glendale his headquarters after this. Mr. Steele has practiced during the past twelve years in Azusa and Los Angeles, and has had a wide and varied practice. His home residence is at La Crescenta, where he and his father have built a store building at the railroad terminus. They went to La Crescenta to stay during the summer months but became so enamored of the hills and the climate that they determined to reside in that neighborhood permanently.

"I think Glendale one of the most beautiful and favorably situated advancing cities I have ever seen," said Mr. Steele. "Its wonderful cleanliness, its picturesque situation amid the foothills, its progressiveness—all attracted me and I looked around and found that there was no attorney here with a local office. There is no doubt in my mind that Glendale is large enough to support a local office."

"I will, of course, do a general business and I have had twelve years' experience in such work. At the same time I will do a special business in the purchasing and selling of municipal bonds. It is true that Glendale is fairly well improved but there is likely to be further improvements. I hope to handle the bonds in that case."

"At present I am handling a suit for the city of Azusa for the purpose of getting a lower rate for electric light from the Pacific Light and Power company. This suit is before the Railroad Commission and there are likely to be other suits of a similar nature in connection with other small cities."

"In every way I am pleased with Glendale and believe that I will find here a permanent and profitable arena of work."

A REAL FISH STORY

Dr. T. C. Young had a remarkable experience while fishing in the Owensmouth reservoir the other day. The doctor had fourteen minnows for bait and managed to capture twelve trout with twelve minnows. The other two minnows he lost. Cutting open one of the trout he had caught in order to use part of its flesh for bait the doctor was amazed to find in the stomach of the fish the two minnows which he had lost. He took them out and with each one of them he caught another trout, making his full record of fourteen trout for fourteen minnows. The doctor's friends say that what with huge trout leaping into boats where Glendale anglers are sitting and positively begging to be taken and with this latest minnow story Glendale is becoming quite celebrated as a center of accomplished anglers.

DEATH OF HARRY C. TUPPER

Harry C. Tupper, of the Tupper-Robinson Real Estate company, 404 S. Glendale avenue, died Monday night at his residence, 119 W. Second street. Mr. Tupper had been in very poor health for seven months past, but became acutely ill during the past week. He was born in Sherbrook, Nova Scotia, April 26, 1868, whence he moved to Massachusetts, where he was in business for ten years. He came to California and was in Berkeley for a number of years and finally settled in Glendale, where he has conducted a real estate business. Mr. Tupper leaves his wife and four children, Wallace Tupper, proprietor of the Glendale garage, Helen Tupper, Agnes Tupper and Samuel Tupper. Mr. Tupper was 48 years of age.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. at the Scovern-Letton-Frey Undertaking company's chapel. Rev. W. E. Edmonds of the First Presbyterian church will officiate. Funeral services private. Cremation at the Los Angeles crematory.

DEATH OF BENJAMIN A. BULL

Benjamin A. Bull, father of Mrs. R. L. Hendricks, 804 W. Fifth St., died Sunday, July 30, at his home, 3628 S. Grand avenue, Los Angeles. He was 73 years of age. The deceased was born in England but had lived most of his life in the United States. He leaves a widow, Catherine Bull. The funeral services will be held at Bresee Brothers chapel, 855 Figueroa street, Los Angeles, Wednesday, Aug. 2. The Rev. Dr. Judd of Epiphany church, Los Angeles, will officiate. Interment will be in Calvary cemetery.

UNION FOR YOUNG MEN

F. J. MATTHIASEN DISCUSSES FEASIBILITY OF ATHLETIC CENTER FOR GLENDALE

During the past five or six years there has been considerable agitation concerning a Young Men's Christian Association in Glendale. This matter through some unknown cause has died out as often as started. It is now being revived. At present a committee, appointed by the Federated Brotherhood, is investigating Community Y. M. C. A.'s at South Pasadena, Whittier and Redding.

This movement should be of interest to every man in Glendale. The Church man from the spiritual standpoint and those not church men, but athletic loving men, from the fact that such a movement would not be complete without a well equipped gymnasium, and others not classified under these two heads would enjoy the use of a recreation room maintained thereby.

At the Federated Brotherhood meeting, above mentioned, a representative of the State Y. M. C. A. thoroughly explained the Community movement and recommended same for Glendale should we contemplate organizing.

If we were to consider and accept the plan as outlined the State organization would furnish us an experienced Secretary, establish an office and out-door playgrounds and arrange for summer camps. The cost of such a movement would be $3,000 per annum, which sum must be guaranteed for a period of three years, at the end of which time we should be in a position to manage it ourselves.

Glendale at present has five or six playgrounds, maintained by the different churches, which are practically unused, owing to the fact that the parties who would use them are compelled to work during the day. It seems far more advisable to have a well equipped gymnasium, open during the afternoon and evenings, where the men and boys could avail themselves of the opportunity of physical training and enjoy competitive games.

The Baraca Class of the First M. E. church of Glendale has recognized the need of such a movement of this kind and for the past three months has been working out plans for same. It was their intention to place their plan before the Federated Brotherhood at their last meeting, but as the state representative was the chief speaker and time was limited they were unable to do so. The status of their movement at present is plans for a gymnasium, recreation room and secretary's office at a cost of approximately $1800 per annum, which based on a membership of 300 members would mean a cut in dues from $10.00 to $6.00 per annum.

Some business men who have been approached with this scheme have opposed it on the ground that such a movement is "too large" for Glendale. In answer to this absurd statement we have but to call the attention of any of similar ideas to what Glendale has already achieved. We have ten or more churches, a score of large clubs and lodges, four or five grammar schools and one High School, all operated and maintained by Glendale men and second to none in Southern California. Glendale also has its own water and light system and men large enough to not only make it go, but make it a paying proposition. Why should it be so difficult to select a board of directors capable of promoting this organization.

On the other hand numerous business men have approved of the plan and have promised their support of same. In fact, one reliable man has promised to construct a building large enough to accommodate a modern gymnasium, office, library, etc., on Broadway near Louise, as soon as a permanent organization is perfected.

The main requisite is co-operation of all men interested. The selection of directors who would have the interest of young men at heart and would promote a scheme of this nature for young men only would be very essential. We believe that such men are obtainable in Glendale (and no where else, for Glendale young men) and we further believe that when these men take hold the young men will show their faith and appreciation by co-operating with them and supporting their every plan.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, AUGUST 1, 1916

BUILDING OF GOOD ROADS

As part of the great plan of preparedness good roads are worth consideration. The continued improvement of the roads of the country of recent years is to be attributed to a great extent to the development of the automobile and the lowering in price of that wonderful civilizer. People who have autos know just what good roads mean and they come home from a trip through certain counties in California and from journeys through certain states converts to a nation-wide system of good roads even if they were not convinced of their necessity before they set out. There is no persuader to the good roads creed like a trip through a bad roads county or State.

Bad as some of the roads in California still are and infinitely worse as are some sections of the Central States, they are not to be compared for a moment to the roads in the days of fifty years ago. The roads might have been developed all over slowly had it not been for the railroads, which wherever they ran seemed to do away with the necessity for good roads. As time went on, however, it was found that the farmer needed good roads at every approach to his ranch and that the more good roads he had the more money he made. The automobile came and transformed the oldstyle farmer into the new scientific cultivator of the soil, the agriculturist, trained in the science of his life's work and anxious for the best methods and the most economical methods of farming. His slogan too became "good roads."

It is no wonder then that everywhere throughout the country the roads are beginning to assume the appearance of well-kept highways. State highways, county roads, national highways are gradually making it a matter of ease to run from Maine to California; from New York to Seattle. The country will gradually begin to realize how great a piece of economy this road building is. The greatest nation of antiquity, the Romans, were the greatest roadbuilders the world has known.

It was the aim of the Roman to build roads so that any part of the empire might always be accessible at any moment and in any part. The Romans in the days of the empire had 40,000 miles of finely paved highway running out from Rome, branching in all directions. Then came the proverb, "All roads lead to Rome," which is so often misconstrued. The country that has good roads has taken a mighty stride forward on the march of civilization.

In time of war, if war should ever come to this land, it would be found that the possession of strategic highways would be one of the great assets in the winning of any campaign. Along those highways would roll countless thousands of autos and auto trucks conveying troops from one front to another and bring up after them their supplies and ammunition. Big guns would roll along to the scene of action with ease and the possession of these national highways would mean perhaps the saving of millions of dollars' worth of property and thousands of lives.

A nation marks its progress in civilization partly by its construction and possession of good roads. The connection between good roads and good citizenship is closer than one might imagine. The man who is anxious to shut himself up in a State and to forget the United States is not an element of progress nor is he the best citizen. The men and women who are working together to bring the different sections of the country together by good roads are engaged in a work of the highest significance to the nation.

EL CAMINO SIERRA

In the ancient days when the friars of Spain were building up the missions in California one great road traversed the country from north to south. That was known as "El Camino Real"—the Royal road, the King's highway. In these latter days there is another royal road, too, inasmuch as it is the highway of a sovereign people—El Camino Sierra. As a matter of fact there is more of real royalty and majesty about the twentieth century road than about the road of the Fathers. It is a kingly road that crowns the high lands of California and like a city set upon a hill cannot be hid.

El Camino Sierra, California's wonderland highway, runs through all the grandeur of the Owens river section, Olancho, Mt. Whitney, Mt. Goddard, Bishop, Mt. Morrison, and Mt. Lyell. These are all magnificent peaks, and though their names are not so familiar as Mt. Whitney they are equally worthy of exploration and the tribute of the nature lover.

El Camino Sierra runs through all this grandeur of mountain lake and valley. It is a highway with a hundred byways; each byway with a hundred wonders. It reaches those towns where all needs can be supplied. It and its connecting roads lead to all parts of this splendid region. Travel coming to Owens valley via West-gard pass, the most impressive gateway into California, may turn southward to Southern California or to the coast through the San Joaquin valley, or it may go north to Tahoe or over the Tioga road into the Yosemite valley and beyond.

El Camino Sierra is to be part of California's great highway system. The most troublesome bit of mountain road on the whole route has been overcome by work already completed, and in July that portion of the highway will be a smooth, oiled boulevard, overlooking a magnificent landscape. Other improvements are under way.

This route is unsurpassed for wonder. The traveler who stops a moment to look closely into the marvels of the Mojave desert will find little nooks and corners that will vastly interest him. If he chooses to turn aside and go up Red Rock canyon he will come upon a weird scene of castled crags, glowing and burning with colors as rich and rare as those of the Painted Desert.

He will find beauty and marvel at Cane Springs, where in the early morning he can count fifty varieties of wild birds, many of whom are seldom seen elsewhere to advantage, swimming in the cool waters of the springs that well up at that point from the heart

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

The Swedish name of Betty Johnson, who recently left Glendale for New York, where she is to take up voice studies with an operatic career in view, undoubtedly has had something to do with the following initial "write-up" from "Nordstjernen" (the North Star), the largest and most influential Swedish paper in New York:

"The real show place of New York to Betty Johnson, who arrived here a few days ago from Glendale, California, is the Metropolitan Opera House. Consequently upon her arrival she hastened at once to take a look at this by so many longed for institution." Betty Johnson intends to sing there some day. For this purpose she has come to New York with the full devotion and hope of certain victory of her twenty years. To begin with she is to study voice—so far she has had no opportunity to do so. Her wonderful voice is a very recent discovery. When California Grand Opera company some time ago was under formation at Los Angeles, Betty Johnson hastened to try her luck and applied for a position with the chorus. She had had no experience but her looks helped her to a chance to try. She knew a little bit of Italian and when the chorus began its rehearsals it was found that she really had a voice which she was also perfectly willing to be taught how to use. She was even promised a chance to try with one of the smaller parts in one of the operas. This gave fire to her ambition and with this, together with other necessary accessories, she has now started out with the determination one day to lay all the world before her feet. The marvelous height of her voice we can imagine when we hear her easily, completely natural and singable take her high C, which only a very few singers can do."

So for the Swedish paper. Perhaps it ought to be mentioned that the editor of the paper, himself a singer of prominence, is considered an authority on music and a living encyclopedia on singers. What he does not know about singing and singers is not considered worth knowing. He does not proclaim Mrs. Johnson a Swede, but the readers of the notice which is now making its round of the Swedish papers will undoubtedly do so. Mrs. Johnson left Glendale nearly a month ago.

A GIFT TO OUR PUBLIC LIBRARY

Next Friday evening, Aug. 4, at 8 o'clock, a $12 set of Henry George's works, 10 volumes, will be presented to the Public Library at the Union High School Single Tax meeting, by Mrs. Nanno Woods in behalf of the citizens who purchased them. So many inquiries for such literature have been made during the petition campaign that the demands are being met in this manner. Two thousand signers from Glendale wish to study this problem further.

MUTUAL BENEFIT READING CIRCLE

The Mutual Benefit Reading Circle will resume its meetings at the home of Mrs. C. H. Toll, Kenneth road, Wednesday, Aug. 2. Mrs. Toll, who has returned from a trip through Yosemite, will preside. The Rector's Guild of St. Mark's church will meet tomorrow, Wednesday, August 2nd, at the residence of its vice-president, Miss Ellen Williams, 903 Dryden street, at 2:30 p. m. The rector and members of the guild cordially invite to be present any one who will help them in their work.

of the desert or sitting on the shore in solemn contemplation of the antics of the aquatic birds. Rare birds like the black ibis and the hoopoe are to be seen there.

He can examine the deserted houses of Goler that stand a monument to the rush that swept hundreds of people into that desert spot to wash the sands for gold and led to the discovery of the great Yellow Aster mine of Randsburg.

If he choose not to diverge from the straight road he can keep ahead on a route that can safely challenge all others. Every hour will unfold new beauties to his enraptured gaze and he will exclaim "the half was not told me." Indeed, time would fail anyone to tell of all the wonders that lie on this enchanted El Camino Sierra. It unfolds a beauty and a glory that are not at all akin to the tinsel magnificence of a monarchical court. Every American should see these wonders for himself.

"A-HUMPING ALONG"

There is an old song, says "Service," that used to be sung by the jubilee singers, with a chorus, "Keep a-humping along," that carries with it the soundest philosophy of a well-ordered life. The trouble with most folks is a lack of steadiness. They are like some men who do odd jobs—just when they can get them; to whom a steady job is a fright. They prefer to work one day and loaf two. They are among the ne'er-do-wells of the world, members of the great army of incompetents.

But there are others who have this spirit of unsteadiness in most of the things they attempt. Now they are fired with a new enthusiasm; everything must move before them; but things do not move as they intended, and before they know it they have fallen out of the way, while the slower-going folks, who have no other genius than simply to go "humping along," pass them by, moving on to the solid successes of life. The man who said that the only genius he had was the ability to work hard, had the right of it—in everything that makes for strong and healthful living.

It isn't a wholesome thing to be genius. It leads to all sorts of erratic things—like the musician who lets his hair grow long, as though music was in a man's hair! Far better is it to have the ability to keep at things—keep "a-humping along." Much of the fret and nervousness of life comes from irregularity of method of service. Today we are rushed to death, and tomorrow we are likely to have too much leisure. When a workman was asked why he did not work harder at his task, he said that he did not wish to work himself out of a job! Aside from the ethical question in the matter of doing one's best always, there was the sensible philosophy in his answer.

It is not a good thing to work one's self out of a job. The best job is that which keeps a man going on steadily, working smoothly, accomplishing much by reason of his stead-fastness.

"How useless girls are today. I don't believe they know what needles are for." "How absurd you are, grandma," protested the girl. "Of course I know what needles are for. They're to make the graphophone play."—Detroit Free Press.

for Scotland on Sunday a few of her friends decided to surprise her. Prof.
Marquis Ellis of Los Angeles and Chas. H. Murchison rendered several dale News during his recent visit to absence on account of having been severely wounded in the fighting around Verdun and came to Los Angeles, where his wife and daughters live. In Washington, D. C., on on their month's vacation, a good share of which will be spent at the

IT SEEMS STRANGE

It has seemed strange and always will seem strange to the management of the Evening News that a society, school or some organization to which during the year the News has given several hundred dollars of free publicity will ask us to compete in bidding upon a job of printing with an outside shop that is not in position to give publicity to anything, and still more strange does all this seem when it may be known that the Evening News bases all charges for work on cost of stock and time on job—no hold-up methods pursued whatever—just purely business methods.

Mrs. E. Howard, well known in Glendale and Tropico, has purchased an 80-acre ranch in the San Joaquin improve it extensively. Mrs. Howard was proprietor of the Central hotel in Glendale for some time and has just sold the Tropico hotel, which she bought some months ago, to Mr.

Corbin of Los Angeles. Mrs. Howard is a hustler and will no doubt prove as successful as a farmer as a business woman.

two years ago was proprietor of the Watts Advertiser, but sold out his business and retired, has elected to make his residence in Glendale.
He is building a bungalow at 1506 with his family. Mr. Schubert was prominent in the Dry campaign in Watts and was bitterly opposed by the saloon element there.

MOTHERS' STUDY READING CIRCLE

The Mothers' Study Reading Circle met at the home of Mrs. R. A.
Puffer, 1532 Vine street, Monday afternoon. Those present were: Mrs.
Frank Ayars, Mrs. Minnette Sherman, Mrs. Hollingsworth, Mrs. G.
D. Roach, Mrs. Maloney, Mrs. R. A.
Puffer. The circle finished the reading of Emily Paulsen's "Love and Law in Child Training." The study of Kate Douglas Wiggin's "Children's Rights" will be begun at next meeting. It has been found that Monday is not the most suitable day for the meetings of the circle and it has been agreed to meet henceforth on Thursdays, at the residence of Mrs. R. A. Puffer, 1532 Vine street.

MISS MABLE SALISBURY HONORED

Many pleasant social events have been planned recently in honor of Miss Mable Salisbury of 131 S.
Brand boulevard, who is soon to become the bride of Mr. Francis Wayland Parsons, Jr., also of Glendale.
Among those of the past week was an afternoon given by Miss Lois E.
Hunt, on Saturday, the 29th, at her home, 1201 Viola street, Casa Verdugo, which was in every respect an event long to be remembered by those present. The spacious rooms of the pleasant foothill home were beautifully decorated with artistic air bouquets of blue and pink cen-taurea and babiesbreath, arranged in bowls of blue and white.

One of the pleasant pastimes arranged by the hostess was the tying of a beautiful pale blue and white comforter. All present took part tying the ribbons, and a practical gift was the result, the gift of the charming young hostess to the lovely bride-to-be.

A poster making contest was the source of much merriment, and vocal solos appropriate to the happy occasion were delightfully rendered by Mrs. Clifford Cunningham. Humorous readings by Miss Helen Wright were also enjoyed, after which all adjourned to the dining room, which was truly enchanting, the same decorations being used here as elsewhere, a large gilt shepherdess basket of the dainty flowers, tied with a bow of blue maline, gracing the table, small counterparts of this basket filled with almonds were souvenirs.

A most delicious repast was served and the surprise of the afternoon came at the close of the feast, when Miss Salisbury was called to the door by a messenger and presented with a huge basket piled high with beribboned parcels, and the articles which made up the "Miscellaneous shower" were duly unwrapped and admired.

Those who enjoyed this delightful afternoon were: Miss Mable Salisbury, Miss Maude Salisbury, Mrs.
Rosco A. Salisbury, Mrs. Raymond
Lushy, Miss Margaret Lushy, Miss
Vera McPherson, Miss Bessie Wright,
Miss Helen Wright, Mrs. W. T.
Sprowls, Mrs. C. Cunningham, Mrs.
R. Moore, Mrs. D. B. Pingree, Mrs.
A. M. Hunt, Miss Mary Hunt, Miss Lois Hunt.

Miss Salisbury was also entertained at the home of Mrs. Robert Moore, of Columbus street, recently.
The event was an apron shower, very delightfully arranged and carried out as a complete surprise to the honor guest. A dozen beautiful aprons were presented in a laundry bag and graciously received by the charming bride-to-be. The cozy home was fittingly decorated with pink roses and pink hearts, the color scheme being carried out in the delicious refreshments.

Those invited were members of a fancy work club composed of the following young women: Miss Mable Salisbury, Miss Maude Salisbury,
Mrs. N. M. Knaus, Mrs. Curl, Mrs.
W. Fryer, Mrs. O. Howard, Mrs.
W. T. Sprowls, Mrs. D. P. Flory,
Mrs. E. Kenrick, Mrs. C. Cunningham, Mrs. R. Moore, Mrs. D. B. Pingree, Mrs. Gray.

THE OLDEST PIANOFORTE

Of the pianofortes produced by Bartolommeo Cristofori, to whom credit is now generally given as the inventor of this instrument, but two are known to be in existence, one being in Florence, dated 1726, and the other in New York, dated 1720. The latter is in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and is therefore not only the oldest pianoforte in New York, but also the oldest pianoforte, as far as is known, in the world.

"Judging from the looks of the bride, I take it that Sixcylinder married for money?" "Not money. Sixcylinder married for gasoline. Her father owns an oil well."—Puck.

It had been a very tiring case for everybody concerned. The plaintiff and the defendant were both countrymen, and had had to have everything explained to them at least twice. "Do I understand, my man," said the magistrate at one point, "that the defendant hurled invectives at you?" The plaintiff scratched his head wildly. Then slowly a look of understanding dawned in his eyes as he replied: "No, sir. To tell the truth, sir, it was only bricks as he threw at me; but wot I complain about is the horrible names he called me."

WORTH SAYING

How much there is in our daily conversation which is not worth saying. How many things slip into our common talk which are not only worthless, but even harmful, since their lack of charity reacts upon the speaker.

GREATEST OF GREEK FATHERS

St. Chrysostom was born in Antioch about 347. He was the son of a noble family and in the school he attended he won honors as an orator. But the influence of a Christian mother led him to decide on a religious life. He spent six years in the desert where he studied and practiced the ascetic life. He was appointed deacon and then presbyter of Antioch, and after some years he rather reluctantly accepted the post of Archbishop of Constantinople. The luxuries which many of the church dignitaries enjoyed at this time did not appeal to Chrysostom. As archbishop he lived almost as simply as he had in the desert, and used his revenues to help the sick and the poor.

While the benevolence of Chrysostom and his eloquence as a preacher were winning him the hearts of the populace, he was making powerful enemies. He deposed a number of church dignitaries for immorality and did not hesitate to denounce vice even in the most exalted. At length his foes became powerful enough to convene a Church synod to try him for heresy. Knowing it was "packed" with his avowed enemies, Chrysostom refused to appear before it, and it forthwith condemned him, and called on the emperor to banish him. This was hurriedly done, but when the people learned of it they showed such fury that the emperor was driven to recall him.

But though Chrysostom returned in triumph, and was joyfully welcomed by the people, it was not for long. In two months he was again banished, foreign troops being brought into the city to overawe the populace. But in his exile, through his letters to the various churches, he was more influential than ever. The emperor then ordered him to be removed to a more isolated point, but he died on the way. Twenty years afterward his relics were brought to Constantinople with great ceremony and the emperor publicly asked the divine forgiveness for his predecessor's cruel treatment of the great preacher.

EFFECTIVE DESIGN FOR GARDEN BOWER

An odd garden bower is made by covering an octagon-shaped lattice with birch bark. In place of the conventional rustic roof, large umbrellas, toadstool in shape, reaching at each end of the bower, each covered with the bark. The tops have the running wistaria vine. The soft silvery gray of the bark and the purple of the wistaria tone beautifully. On the floor are soft green rugs, with the wistaria color in the borders and center. Leading out from the bower are three long beds of perennial flowers, their brilliant yellows and purples rising up to the very door of the bower.

If we enable ourselves to distinguish, by the truth of our own lives, what is true in the lives of others, we shall perceive that all good has its origin in good, never in evil.—John Ruskin.

"You must remember, my boy, that wealth does not bring happiness." "I don't expect it to. I merely want it so that I may be able to choose the kind of misery that is most agreeable to me."—Boston Traveler.

NOVEL DEVICES IN FOOTWEAR

The season for advertising sport goods is nearly past, but a few new features are still to be seen in the shop windows. Among the prettiest are the washable white oxfords, daintily trimmed in various colored kids. It is a strange freak of fashion that the old stand-by, the oxford shoe, should so largely be usurped by the sport shoe. The pearl gray tri-stripes over the toe set off the ivory sole and heel effectively. These are varied by dark blue kid tips and fox straps. There are also the soft-toned Havana kid, with soles and heels of ivory. These shoes are smartly set off with lengthwise striped hosiery of yellows and purples, buffs and blues, hunter's green and white.

For evening wear this fall and winter the old-fashioned brocade satin slippers will be worn. The advance samples are in, made with black satin backs and silver vamps, of silver tinsel cloth and silver and gold brocades. The heels will be somewhat lower.

THINK TWICE

In a recent examination of railway engineers held by the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company, a young applicant for promotion was asked a question, "What controls you most in your work?"

His reply was, "I try to think twice every time that I do anything. My first thought is as to what I am doing, and my second thought is how I can best do it."

He won his promotion, not only because of his past excellent service, but on account of the wisdom displayed in his reply.

The habit of thinking twice before taking any action was once referred to by Commodore Vanderbilt as a danger signal, which, if properly heeded, would be certain to prevent many disasters. There are many times in which quick action is required, but there are few occasions in life when one cannot take the time to think twice before acting.

After many efforts the aspiring singer had managed to get permission to give a trial performance at the local music-hall. The house was full, and he warbled in his sweetest tones. Suddenly a hoarse voice came from the side of the stage. "Here, you come off!" ordered the stage manager. "Can't you see you're emptying the house?" "Er—I don't seem to be a success, then?" said the amateur timorously. "Success! Huh!" snorted the manager, angrily. "At clearing them up you're the most successful guy I ever met. Now, for goodness' sake, go and sing outside and drive 'em in again."

Malherbe having dined with the Bishop of Rouen, who was a dull preacher, was asked by him to adjourn from the table to the church, where he was then going to preach. "Pardon me," said Malherbe, "but I can sleep very well where I am."

NEW TRAVELING OUTFIT

By MARGARET MASON

Luella travels all the while,
She's never seen at home;
Her travel togs become her so,
She simply has to roam.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Traveling made becoming! That's what the stunning new travel togs do for the busy little globe trotters. Hats, coats, veils, bags and boxes, they are all as smart as smart can be. The newest travel coats come in striking shades of tobacco brown, mustard, peacock blue and emerald green and hang voluminously full from narrow shoulders or narrow yokes. Huge patch pockets are much in evidence and buttons big as silver dollars or even doughnuts. Of a certainty, if your coat is peacock blue your toilette case too must be that hue. These fascinating receptacles, when of the colored leather, are built like small suitcases, but the regular traveling bag shaped ones are all of either dark leather or pig skin and then lined to match your color scheme.

It were easier to enumerate what these Pandora treasure boxes do not contain than what they do. Everything appertaining to a fastidious feminine toilette is there. The complete beauty parlor to be toted at ease by a red cap and be at your service by land or sea as first aids in your capture of all nationalities of male. There are of course hair brush, comb and mirror; clothes brush, hat brush and nail brush; a complete manicure outfit, an electric curling iron, soap box, tooth brush case and innumerable boxes and jars for cold cream, powder, rouge, scents and lotions. Button hook, shoe horn and hairpin box also lurk in ambush. These articles are most adequate in ivory monogrammed or striped in black or gold, but an edition de luxe is exquisite in crystal, gilt and enamel.

There are the complete sewing kits too in either leather or cretonne covered boxes so that you may darn or tat en route and take the famous little stitch in time that saves nine. For the thrifty travelers who love to put out a wash in the privacy of her stateroom or hotel domicile there is a three pound electric iron that will turn up side down and let you heat water on it. It is made with a hole in one end where you may heat your curling iron and it all packs up in a small velvet bag of nine by seven inches.

For further aid to the traveling laundress come in either little silk or leather covered envelope cases one-half dozen tiny clothes pins, a stout cord wound on a flat card and two glass headed thumb tacks whereon to hang your line. The wardrobe trunks have reached a pinnacle of excellence which makes them, with their hangers and drawers, as complete as your own closet and dresser at home; and the hat boxes of leather with handles so that they may be carried on your way, or the larger hat trunks fitted with padded head rests for six and eight hats and a tray for your hatpins, gloves and veils, make going away quite as convenient and comfortable as staying at home, and twice as fascinating.

LARGE PATCH POCKETS

The summer girl is rejoicing in the capacious patch pockets at either side of her sport skirt. In former summers, skirts have been so close fitting that the pocket, even if permitted, had to be empty, lest a bulge should break the smooth outlines of the garment. The present billowing fullness, however, permits the pocket to be not only a decorative feature of the sport costume but a practical receptacle for gloves, handkerchief, gardening shears, or even for tennis balls.

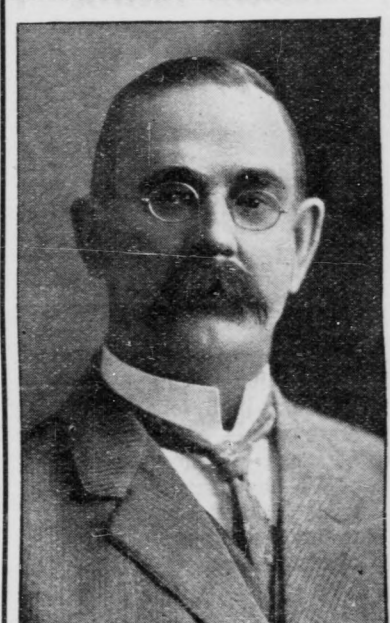

CANTELOUPE EN SURPRISE

Cut canteloupes in half, remove the seeds and fibers, and scoop up the meat in spoonfuls, leaving it in the shell. Then fill up the canteloupe with vanilla ice cream, heaping it a little. This is a delicious dessert.

As the horse that runs, the hound that hunts, the bee that hives its honey, so should the one who does a kindness not shout, but pass on to the next act, as a vine to the bearing of clusters for next season.—Marcus Aurelius.
